

90-Day Social Media Content Bank

LinkedIn, Facebook, Instagram and short-form video

Helping More Borrowers Become Lending Ready.

Publishing rhythm

Use three feed posts, two stories, and one short video each week. Rotate content among lender education, borrower education, partner recruitment, process transparency, and credibility.

Day 1 — Partner Education

A declined borrower still needs a roadmap.

A borrower who does not qualify today can still become a future closing. Give them a clear next step instead of a dead end.

Lending Readiness Partners helps clients understand their credit position, prioritize responsible next steps, and reconnect with their lender when appropriate.

Day 2 — Borrower Education

Mortgage readiness begins before the next application.

Credit readiness is more than one score. Balances, payment history, recent activity, and report accuracy all matter.

Lending Readiness Partners helps clients understand their credit position, prioritize responsible next steps, and reconnect with their lender when appropriate.

Day 3 — Process

Credit improvement should be documented—not improvised.

Our workflow begins with a review, moves into a documented action plan, and ends with a responsible hand-back to the referring professional.

Lending Readiness Partners helps clients understand their credit position, prioritize responsible next steps, and reconnect with their lender when appropriate.

Day 4 — Myth

A better borrower experience creates a stronger future pipeline.

Myth: every negative item can be removed. Reality: accurate information generally cannot be erased simply because it is unfavorable.

Lending Readiness Partners helps clients understand their credit position, prioritize responsible next steps, and reconnect with their lender when appropriate.
